

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An effervescent granule for use in particulate detergent compositions characterised in that it comprises an acid 5 source, a carbonate source and solid surfactant particles is provided. The effervescent granules give enhanced dispensing properties, improved structure and a rich foaming visual signal which provides a strong positive connotation in the mind of the end user